HIGHWAY TIPS FOR TOWN OFFICIALS

Annual Good Roads Meeting Held on Tuesday Well Attended by Town Superintendents and Supervisors.

That each town in the county should make an effort to get its full amount of state aid in building its roads was the main point brought out at the good roads meeting held on Tuesday afternoon at the court house by Charles B. Perry, district supervisor, and Fred Buck, first assistant to the third deputy of the state highway department, who addressed the meeting. There was over one hundred present when the meeting was called to order by County Superintendent of Highways James F. Laughlin.

Mr. Perry, who was the first speaker, said that the office of town superintendent of highways should be taken out of politics. He said that the first year the town superintendent was practically learning how to do the work on the roads and that the second year he was using his knowledge to advantage and then another man was elected to the office and the taxpayers had to pay for the new man's education.

The main point touched upon by both Mr. Perry and Mr. Buck was that each town should raise by tax the amount needed for highway purposes and that each town superintendent in making up his estimate for 1916 should specify the largest amount of money on which the town could receive state aid. At the present time there are towns in Ulster county that receive from $8 to 100 per cent of state money for highway purposes. In towns where they were allowed 100 per cent it meant that if the town levied by tax the sum of $2,000 for the roads that the state would pay the town $2,000 and that then the town would have $4,000 to expend on its highways. It was brought out that there are at least six towns in Ulster county that are not getting the limit of state aid.

Mr. Buck also touched upon the subject of flooring for bridges and advocated that where wooden floorings were used that the town superintendent lay two by four inch planks spiking them together and then laying a carpet of tar and gravel over and. He said that such a floor was first laid on a bridge in a county in the state and that it had been in use for three years and showed no signs of wearing out.

At the close of the addresses a number of questions were asked and answered.

Town Superintendent of Highways James F. Laughlin also spoke briefly of the work that had been done in his town.

Among the supervisors present at the meeting were McElhone of Shawangunk, C. Meach Woolsey of Marlborough, W. Kelly Shook of Wawarsing, D. E. Schoonmaker of Rochester, Dr. Ulster, DuBois of Rosendale, Haynes of Hardenbergh, Meeker of Gardiner, Callahan of Kingston, Charles Schoonmaker of Esopus, Hasbrouck of Marlborough, Hartshorn of Plattekill, and Merriew of Olive.

CLEANUP WEEK BEGINS ON MONDAY

Board of Health Urges Everybody to Get Busy—Milk Producers and Dealers Rated by Sanitary Inspector—Garbage Collecting Permits Issued.

The setting aside of next week as "Cleanup Week" with the request that every one in the city participate in it; the fact that sixty-one of the eighty-five producers of milk in Ulster county have qualified to produce Grade B milk; that the over-crowding of the dormitories at the Industrial Home, in the opinion of the health officer, was the cause of the recent typhoid fever epidemic that raged at that institution; the granting of twelve applications for permits to collect garbage in the city and the refusal to grant the thirteenth application, not because it is an unlucky number, but the applicant had not complied with the sanitary code, were among the more important matters that came up at the regular monthly meeting of the board of health held on Tuesday evening at the city hall.

The Garbage Question.

In response to a notice sent each man holding a temporary permit from the board to collect garbage in the city, twelve of the men appeared before the board and applied for permits, as the temporary permits were cancelled. A discussion of the garbage question followed and it was found that the plan that the board first thought of adopting that of allowing each garbage collector a certain district and thus relieving the city garbage collectors of collecting in the sections assigned to those desiring garbage permits was not practicable, as all of the men who collected garbage made collections as early in the morning as possible and it was found that in the uptown districts many of the householders would not get their garbage pails out until after noon even after the regular city collectors had gone through the street, and then because his garbage was not collected the householder in a number of cases would register a "kick" with the mayor or members of the board.

The replies given by the men desiring permits brought out the fact that all of them collected garbage in the upper section of the city and that the only garbage collected in the down town section was by two city wagons.

After the applications had been made the board on motion granted them. Each man collecting garbage will be furnished with two sign plates, which he must hang on the sides of his garbage wagon, and by this method if a householder complains it will be easy to locate the man complained of. The signs will be ready at the board of health office after next Monday and will be furnished free to those holding permits.

Permits were granted to Walter Tibbals, Lake Katrine; Henry Melbert, No. 46 Lincoln street; Leonard Gerlach, town of Ulster; Harry D. Freer, Lucas turnpike; Frank Armata, Linderman avenue; Green Cassidy, Hurley avenue; Frank Buntzen, Howland avenue; William Johnston, No. 94 Bruyn avenue; Abram Riel, Saugerties road; Theodore S. Lyke, Sawkill road; John S. Waterman, Howland avenue; and George F. Polley, of Hurley.

Refused a Permit.

A written request from Granville Mosher of Creek Locks asking for permission to collect garbage on President's Place and Hone street, was read. Sanitary Inspector Clarke reported that he had seen Mr. Mosher carrying milk in the same wagon with his garbage and he had informed him that he was violating the health ordinance but that Mosher replied that he had a permit from the board. He had seen Mosher again on Tuesday and he was still carrying milk and garbage in the same wagon. On motion Mr. Mosher's request for a permit was denied and his temporary permit to collect garbage was revoked.

Mrs. Kniskern Wants $800.

A communication was received from Mrs. E. M. Kniskern of No. 136 Clinton avenue stating that she had a bill against the board amounting to $800 for caring for a contagious case at her home.

It was brought out that a student who attended a business school up town was boarding at her house when he became ill with scarlet fever and the house was quarantined. Mrs. Kniskern bore the house was quarantined sent away the other members of her family and she took care of the patient. For that service she is charging $800 for the use of her house and $60 for her personal services.

The communication was filed.

A Few Complaints.

Chauncey Smith filed a complaint with the board that the Moloch outside vault on Henry street had not been filled up and the complaint was referred to the sanitary inspector.

A complaint was also received that Charles Brown of Henry street had not installed a toilet in the house and the matter was referred to the plumbing inspector.

Cleanup Week.

Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, commissioner of health, wrote a long letter to the board calling attention to the fact that April 22 was being set aside as a "Cleanup Day," and suggesting that the board set aside that day or any week for a cleanup week.

Commissioner Mahar moved that next week be set aside as "Cleanup Week," which was unanimously carried.

The board trusts that every resident in the city will help in cleaning up the city by getting busy and cleaning up their premises. Cleanup starts on Wednesday of next week and it is hoped that by starting the work on Monday and Tuesday that the city will be cleaned up before it opens.

How It Started.

Health Officer Stelle said that he had been asked by the Industrial Home authorities for a special permit in regard to sleeping quarters. He said that under the law 640 cubic feet of air must be allowed for each occupant of a sleeping room. At the present time the institution has been forced by the number of inmates to place more children in the dormitories and he believed that the late typhoid fever epidemic and other troubles at the institution were due to the fact that the sleeping quarters were over-crowded and that it tended to lessen the vitality of the children.

Dr. Stelle thought that with warmer weather there will be better ventilation in the dormitories as the windows will be kept open more.

The board finally decided to leave the entire matter with the health officer.

Those Drinking Cups.

Dr. Stelle called attention to an amendment to the state sanitary code in regard to common drinking cups that goes into effect the first of the month. It is forbidden to use common drinking cups and common drinking or eating utensils in any public place or institution except in hospitals for the insane; or in any hotel, saloon, lodging house, theater, factory, store, school or public hall; or in any railway or trolley car or ferry boat; or in any railway or trolley car station or ferry house; or in any public place or institution where the term "common" is construed to mean for use by more than one person without adequate cleaning.

All Farms Scored.

Dr. Stelle reported that the eighty-five producers in the county had been visited and their farms scored and of that number sixty-one have qualified in so far as equipment and methods are concerned to produce grade B raw, and that twenty-three are producing grade C, and that one farm has not been scored as yet.

The names of the producers and the grade of milk they produce follow:

Peter Armbruster, Glen street, grade C, lacks physical examination of herd.

Vincent Astor, Rhinebeck, grade B, although suspected to be higher grade yet Dr. Stelle has received no evidence of it.

B. J. Babcock, Hurley avenue, grade B.

Homer Brown, Hurley avenue, grade B.

H. R. Brigham, Katrine, grade B.

Alex Black, Kingston, R. F. D., grade B.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 14.—The real reason why Victoriano Huerta, former Mexican dictator, came to the United States from Spain was revealed here today. He was seeking a refuge. While he may take part in schemes relative to Mexico, that was not his aim in coming here, government officials have learned.

Publication of a list of crimes committed against Spaniards during Huerta's regime in Mexico aroused public anger in Spain to such an extent that the Madrid government practically expelled him. This was done ostensibly to appease the wrath of the Spanish people, but in reality to save Huerta's life, as he was in serious danger of mob violence.

As soon as Huerta reached Spain and settled down to enjoy the fruits of his rule in Mexico, the Spanish newspapers began denouncing him. They declared that directly after the death of Madero, Huerta demanded $20,000,000 from a list of Mexican banks. He finally obtained $25,000,000 and this he deposited in banks in Spain against the hour when he must flee. Then they published the names of 15 Spanish citizens alleged to have been murdered by Huerta. Many other crimes and the confiscation of Spanish property were described.

"Shall we provide a harbor for this assassin?" asked one Spanish newspaper editorial. All called upon the government to expel the unwelcome guest.

Mobs assembled around Huerta's residence, and the government privately informed him that he must leave immediately.

"A guard of honor" was placed at his door. It was really a cordon of police to protect him.

Officers of the government not only escorted Huerta to the pier and saw him on board the Antonio Lopez, but two swift destroyers accompanied the vessel to sea.

What is a Cafeteria Supper?

It has often been said that there is nothing new under the sun, but at the chapel of the First Reformed Church next Tuesday, April 20, between the hours of 5 and 8, the C. E. Society will prove the contrary to be true. Watch Friday night's Freeman for further information on this subject.

Vision in Fishes.

As to the range of vision in fishes little is definitely known, except that some species, like sharks, have very keen eyesight, while others seem to get on excellently, perhaps by feeling, in dark or muddy waters where eyesight can little serve them. It is certain that the depths of the ocean, all below an upper mile or so, are wrapped in absolute darkness. No ray of light from the sun ever penetrates there. Everywhere is utter blackness, so that photographic plates may be exposed for hours and not be affected.—American Magazine.

North Rondout Nine Won.

The North Rondout baseball club defeated the Kingston A. C. on Tuesday by the score of 13 to 3. The North Rondouts are anxious to arrange games and communications should be addressed to Theodore Schuberg, No. 327 Third avenue.

MAY OFFER PRIZES TO ROAD PATROLS

The regular monthly meeting of the board of governors of the Automobile Club of Ulster county was held on Monday evening at the Eagle Hotel. The board passed a resolution favoring the retaining of the present system of patrolling the roads in the county and a copy of the resolution has been forwarded to the state highway department. The matter of offering prizes for the best patrolled roads in the county was discussed and it was decided to take up the question with the state highway department and see if it met with approval before anything was done in the matter. Under the plan discussed $50 would be awarded to the man who won first prize, $30 to the second man and $20 to the third man.

MAY IRWIN MAY RESIDE IN ULSTER

News leaked out today that May Irwin, who stars in the farce comedy, "No. 13 Washington Square," at the Kingston opera house tonight, may become a resident of Ulster county.

For some time, it appears, she has been in correspondence with various people in Ulster county in regard to purchasing a farm in Ulster county on which she can spend part of each year. She has visited Ulster county frequently when not busy on the stage, and is delighted with the scenery and people whom she declared are most charming. The visits she has paid to Ulster county farms have been made at other times than the occasions when she has appeared in various productions at the opera house and she has hopes that soon she will find a property which will prove exactly to her wishes, and then she will become a permanent resident.

Miss Irwin is delighted with Kingston, where she always has been received with the same warm welcome with which audiences in New York and in fact throughout all parts of the United States have greeted her. Ulster county as a place of residence appeals to her because of its nearness to New York. With a home here she would be enabled to keep her frequent engagements with Broadway audiences without difficulty and enjoy to the full the country life which always has appealed strongly to her.

Ulster county and the Catskills have long been a favorite resort for famous theatrical folk. Julia Marlowe owns a summer home at Highmount, Maudie Adams for several years has established herself annually at Ontario Park, and tucked away in quiet nooks are many others, to whom the county and its people have appealed strongly. Ulster county will be just as quick to welcome Miss Irwin as a private citizen as in her professional role as Queen of the American stage.

Woman's World

A Woman Who Has Had Two Distinct Professions.

MISS ELSIE DE WOLFE.

New York and the United States have many interesting women to their credit, but they are usually women who have made a specialty of one profession and have won distinction there. Miss De Wolfe is unique in that she left the stage when a star and has since devoted herself to interior decorating. Miss De Wolfe lives with a friend, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, in a house which was originally a four story and basement house of pinkish brown stone and had an ugly stair from the street to the front door. Miss De Wolfe says:

"I wanted to prove to my friends that it was possible to take one of the darkest and grimest of city houses and make it an abode of sunshine and light, and I wanted to furnish the whole house exactly as I pleased—for once!"

The first thing she did was to tear away the front stoop and give the house an entrance door just below the street level. The stairway running up from the hall was torn out and the whole front of the house thrown into the drawing room, the staircase being rebuilt in the center of the house. It has been called "The Little House of Many Mirrors" for much of its spaciousness and charm is the effect of skillfully managed reflections.

The stair landings are most ingeniously planned. There are landings that lead directly from the stairs into the rooms of each floor, and back of one of the mirrored stair walls there is a little balcony, connecting the rooms on that floor, that is a private passage-way.

In the dining room Miss De Wolfe is guilty of a trick, but it is a very clever and pretty trick. The two windows in this room are obviously windows by day, but at night two sliding doors of mirrors are drawn, just as a curtain would be drawn, to fill the window spaces. This is a little bit tricky, but it is a very good trick.

The walls of this house are painted a dull French gray, and there is no paper at all. It is not a shining paint, but of a dull finish that has to be properly done to be effective. On this subject Miss De Wolfe says:

"To me the most beautiful wall is the plain and dignified painted wall, broken into graceful panels by the use of narrow moldings, with lighting fixtures carefully placed and every picture and mirror hung with classic precision. This wall is just as appropriate to the six room cottage as to the twenty room house. If I could always find perfect walls I'd always paint them and never use a yard of paper. Painted walls, when very well done, are dignified and restful and most sanitary. The trouble is that too few plasterers know how to smooth the wall surface and too few workmen know how to apply paint properly."

Miss De Wolfe is interested in a new venture in New York city, which is, as the man remarked one day, "the greatest thing in New York." It is a roof garden called the Strand Roof Garden, which is run on the caterpillar plan. But dancing can be enjoyed there at noon by shopgirls or any working girl or young man absolutely free of charge. The place is wonderfully decorated in pale greens and soft creams, and each little table has its vase of seasonable flowers. A chaperon is always there to take charge of the manners of the place.

The Practical Side.

"During the entire service you never see your eyes off the diamonds of the woman in front of you," remonstrated he.

"Well," replied she, "there are serious stones."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Valued Pocket Piece

By JOHN Y. LARNED

My father was killed fighting on the northern side in the battle of Gettysburg, on the 24 of July. I was old enough to remember the news of his death and the military funeral that was given him when his body was sent home. Thirty years after his death I was paid a silver dollar bearing date of 1863. Since it marked the date of my father's death in battle, I prized it, and, instead of parting with it, I cut on it my father's initials.

One day while traveling I fell in with a young man, with whom I chatted. On entering the station at Cleveland the car door was thrown open and a trainman called: "Cleveland! All out!" The young man, surprised that the train would go so far, made inquiries and discovered that he must stop overnight in Cleveland. He at once began to examine the contents of his pocketbook and found that he had barely enough to pay his bill at a hotel. I asked him to permit me to lend him some funds, but he refused, saying that he had just sufficient to get through. I insisted on his taking more, and he said if I had any loose change in my pocket he would accept it as a loan. The only coin I had was my pocket piece. After a moment's hesitation I handed it to him. He tried to get my address in order to return the loan, but we were leaving the train in a crowd, and I hurried away.

Not long after this the newspapers were filled with accounts of the murder of Richard Thornton, a wealthy man, in Buffalo. The case was one of those mysterious happenings that attract widespread attention. A nephew of the deceased, Edgar Thornton, was accused of murdering his uncle in order to secure his estate. The murdered man was very old, a bachelor, and his household affairs were administered by a Mrs. Ferguson, a widow, who, the evidence seemed to indicate, was endeavoring to induce him to make a will in her favor. The state attorney, by patching together bits of evidence, made a very good case, showing that the nephew, in whose favor a will had already been made, fearing that the woman would succeed in securing one giving her the property, had murdered his uncle to prevent his doing so.

Mrs. Ferguson swore that Edgar Thornton was with his uncle on the night of the murder, the two being together in the uncle's bedroom. She claimed to have heard high words between them. Edgar had left the house at 11 o'clock. She did not see Richard Thornton till the next morning, when she found him dead, with a pillow pulled over his face. A work point in the prosecution was that some $200 that the deceased had on hand in a desk was missing. The state attorney declared that the accused had taken the money in order to make it appear that the murder had been committed for the purpose of robbery.

I read the newspaper reports of the trial, missing only one day's report. The next issue of the paper mentioned that the accused had endeavored to prove an alibi.

The servants in the house were all against Mrs. Ferguson, testifying that she kept Mr. Thornton in sort of imprisonment, but they were persons of no education, and their evidence was easily pulled to pieces by the prosecutor. Indeed, Mrs. Ferguson proved that they had been liberally tipped by Edgar Thornton whenever he had called on his uncle.

It did not take me long to make up my mind that the accused was guilty. He could not have been innocent unless Mrs. Ferguson had perjured herself in testifying that he was with his uncle, and the only person with him, on the night of the murder.

I read the summing up of the case by the prosecutor, and my attention was attracted to these words:

The prisoner has claimed that on the night the murder was committed he was traveling on a train between Cleveland and Buffalo.

My meeting with the man to whom I had loaned a silver dollar flashed upon me. Could this Edgar Thornton be the person I had met? That person was to remain over in Cleveland at a hotel. The accused claimed to have been on a train.

A human life might depend on my action. I took a train for Buffalo and when I arrived went to the courtroom where the trial was being held. In the prisoner I recognized my fellow traveler. I called for his attorney, told my story and was put on the stand. I testified that on a certain date—the evening of the murder—I had entered Cleveland with the accused and had loaned him a silver dollar, which I described. The prisoner produced the identical dollar I had given him with the initials and date I had scratched on it.

There was a sensation in the courtroom. A man who was about to be convicted of murder was acquitted and was heir to a fortune. When I asked how he happened to have been on a train instead of in a hotel in Buffalo he said he had found passage on a combination milk and passenger train. Mrs. Ferguson had perjured herself to be revenged on the man to whom she had lost her fortune.

When Edgar Thornton went to his home on his release he found it filled with flowers from sympathetic friends. I have the pocket piece, more valued than ever.

Taking the Blame.
"Of course it was all my fault!" exclaimed the young married man.
"What happened?"
"My wife tried to sharpen a lead-pencil with my razor and cut herself."—Washington Star.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 14 1915.

One of the temperance measures which is being considered by the British Government is the closing down of public houses in the immediate vicinity of factories, mines and workshops. This strikes us likely to prove effective. Nobody has any business to partake of intoxicants during working hours, and anyone who feels the need of stimulants during those hours should be put in a doctor's care. This is no infringement upon personal liberty. Conviviality is all right in its place, but it does not go well with a contract to work so many hours. Sleep is a good thing, too, but it is an undesirable workman who takes naps while on his job. A barroom in close proximity to a workshop is worse than a bed because the temptation is stronger. There is scarcely any drunkenness among American workmen while on duty, so far as we have observed, but it might be well to introduce the British idea here purely as a preventive measure.

Old Victoriano Huerta is now in this country and is having a rip-roaring good time. Few men would have the "nerve" to make such a visit in view of the fact that the United States declared war upon him a year ago, and demanded a salute which he never gave. It is strange that he is not arrested now and compelled to make good. It is true that he has no large guns with him, but in spite of the Sullivan law he might somehow be supplied with twenty-one revolvers which he could fire off simultaneously by connecting the triggers. This would restore our wounded national dignity and make us all feel better. It would be a good thing for Huerta, too, doubtless making him the lion of the hour. This salute might be fired on the White House lawn, after which the repentant old "greaser" could walk up the steps and call on the President, who could hardly refuse to receive him after such a performance. The great men could shake hands and make up, after which Victoriano could tell Woodrow some inside facts which would benefit his understanding.

In ordinary cases one can predict quite accurately what is going to happen if he is sufficiently acquainted with history to know what came out of similar conditions in the past, but the ultimate effect of the European war upon our country can only be guessed at, the situation being so novel that no precedent can be found for it. One of the most interesting theories is that of Former Senator Beveridge, who has lately returned from the battle front. He notes the fact that the German Government has practically taken control of all business, while the British and French Governments are not far behind it in this respect. He believes that this control will be continued after the war ends. If so, it is clear that each line of business—especially manufacturing—will be to all intents and purposes organized into a powerful trust. If the United States continues its policy of discouraging business combinations, it is obvious that our industries will be in the position of pygmies competing with giants for the world's trade, with the inevitable result. We neither endorse nor discredit the Senator's prophecy, but point to the probability, which amounts almost to certainty, that before the war is out of the way our Government will be in the control of a party with vigor and intelligence adequate to protect our interests from foreign competition.

We had supposed that every species of regulation of private conduct by official authority had been thought of in this country, but we were badly mistaken. In fact, not more than half of the possibilities have been proposed, to say nothing of their being carried out. Heretofore, regulation has been in the nature of restriction on speed. The Government has seen to it that business men did not make money too fast, that automobiles did not go more than so many miles an hour, that individuals did not drink too much, and so on. Much has been done to make the swift slow up, but the duty of making the slow speed up has been too long neglected. This fact has impressed itself upon the powerful mind of Captain William De Hart, President of the Police

Commission of Elizabeth, N. J., and he has announced that hereafter all baby carriages in that town must be pushed along "as fast as an ordinary person walks." As it is, thoughtless mothers and nurses impede traffic through their leisurely movements and even interfere with business by leaving their charges standing in front of stores while they go in to shop or buy ice cream. The chief obstacle in the way of this great reform is the difficulty of devising a suitable punishment for offenders, but that may be surmounted. Brilliant ideas like this are always imitated and improved upon, and we see troublous times ahead for all persons who do not "get a rail on."

JUST A ROSE.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Someone recently, with a love of beauty deep-engrafted in his make-up, addressed an ode to "the woman who pins a rose in her hair," and while the pretty sentiment was fresh in mind, a startling sort of question sent thoughts running in an opposite direction. It was simply:

"Why doesn't she dress as if she lived in a world that loves and looks for beauty?"

And why doesn't she? No one knows.

It was a man who put that question, and he was neither flippant nor over-critical. He recognized that it was not lack of funds that was responsible for the air of somberness; that nature had been fairly kind and that it must be inclination alone that made her out of tune with her surroundings.

And as the picture recurred to mind of "the woman who pins a rose in her hair," the question was echoed.

While quite ready to admit that the dress-pendulum is quite likely to swing in the other direction and that "beauty unadorned is adorned the most," even beauty asks for softening, modern attire, simple as may be, but appealing as can be, even to the last touch of the rose in the hair.

And it is not all vanity that makes the average woman want to contribute her small part of the harmony of her setting; but rather, individual effort to keep pace with the beauty she meets at every turn.

A school teacher once read me an interesting page from her experience. Her career was started in a country district where the children, figuratively speaking, simply devoured her daily attire. She was always prettily, but simply dressed, and some days her gown, in expense, might have rivaled the "dollar graduation dress" of recent production; but whatever it was, there always was an effort to look dainty and cheery, to offer something to please the eye.

Those boys and girls did not come from homes of wealth, and expensive attire would have been out of keeping, but beauty and softness never strike a discordant note. So keen were the eyes of those young watchers that they not only noted the least change or addition, but even commented upon the fact that a fresh handkerchief appeared each morning.

If so trifling a detail as that was noted by their sharply critical eyes, it certainly seems worth while to have given them the inspiration of her freshness and love of the beautiful, which she did, to the last.

There is more to the rose in the hair than one might suppose at first thought. It may seem a foolish bit of sentiment, and yet when the great Artist-Maker of the world fashioned us to get so much pleasure out of a ruddy sunset or the unconscious grace of a child, why is it not in keeping to add as much as possible to the beauty of the picture, and if a rose adds to the effectiveness, why not wear it?

There is something oppressive in sombreness and dull colors unless they are in the hands of artists, and even though satisfied with the hues of darkness we owe it to those in our midst to present as cheery a spectacle as possible.

In a mournful tone, the question was asked recently: "Is our chief aim happiness, and a desire for the beautiful—should it be?"

Without venturing an answer, it would seem that to be always looking in those directions savors something of the aim of childhood days; but surely to have missed them is like being sightless from birth.

So we look back to the woman who dresses so dully and discordantly that she calls forth a word of protest and ask that she add a note of brightness to her attire, for the sake and the pleasure of those with whom she is associated.

As to the woman who tucks a rose in the coils of her hair, one says, long may she continue to gather the pretty flower and wear it as a small contribution to the world-beauty we were made to admire.

FORMING CHURCH BOWLING LEAGUE

Physical Director Godfrey of the Y. M. C. A. has taken up with the local churches the idea of organizing a church bowling league to roll on the Y. M. C. A. alleys during May and part of June. The idea would be to have the various churches enter five men teams and a small entry fee would be charged which would be used to purchase a silver cup for the winning team. Already some of the churches are bowling against each other and if enough can be interested the league will be formed.

Friday afternoon at 4:15 there will be a meeting of those interested in the formation of the Junior baseball league at the Y. M. C. A. Six teams have entered and any team wishing to enter should notify Physical Director Godfrey or be present at the meeting that afternoon.

Tuesday evening the team of Captain Wood defeated the team of Captain DeForest on the Y. M. C. A. alleys by a score of 2,592 to 2,579 pins.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"De man dat likes to hear himself talk," said Uncle Eben, "is mos' always mighty easy interested."—Washington Star.

She—"So Phil's married at last!" He—"Yes; he was so hopelessly involved financially, there was nothing else to do."—Judge.

"Jack says he is going to raise the wind." "Well, what then?" "Them, of course, he'll blow it in."—Baltimore American.

"What's the matter with your wife, anyhow?" "She's got a case of flat tire." "Whaddye mean, a flat tire?" "She's weary of living in a flat."—Houston Post.

First Boy—"My father's been everywhere." Second Boy—"Has he been to heaven?" First Boy—"Well, no. But he's been to every place of more than five thousand population."—Life.

Owens—"My tailor will be here in half an hour." Elevator Boy—"Yes, sir; shall I ask him to wait?" Owens—"Certainly not, you idiot! What do you suppose I'm going out for?"—Boston Transcript.

"I must say these are fine biscuits!" exclaimed the young husband. "How could you say those are fine biscuits?" inquired the young wife's mother, in a private interview. "I didn't say they were fine. I merely said I must say so."—Washington Star.

Der Tag.
"J. M. Barrie has written a play, Der Tag, about a dream of the Kaiser," said Playwright Eugene Walter at a luncheon in New York.

"It is not a very good play. It makes the poor Kaiser do himself all kinds of impossible harm in his dreams. In fact, it reminds me of the dream of a little child I know." "This youngster awoke in the middle of the night and began to sob." "Oh, mumm!" he sobbed. "I dreamed I was a stick of candy and had eaten myself up!"—New York Telegraph.

What Training Will Do.
A traveler visiting a large factory made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among his employees. Accordingly, he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner, and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married and in almost every case he was right. "How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement. "Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the single men don't."—Argonaut.

Why War?
Andrew Carnegie, the world's leading advocate of peace, said of war the other day:

"Each fighting nation, as it slaughters and destroys, declares that this war is foolish, that it didn't want war, that war was thrust upon it. And yet each nation keeps on fighting."

"What a world! I know a man who was in Southern France last August when the war began. In the courtyard of my friend's hotel a regiment of chasseurs came down from the heights of the Maritime Alps, was in bivouac for a day or two before going to the front. At luncheon one morning my friend heard a robust young chasseur growl ferociously over his soup:

"By gracious, I'm going to bring back a pair of English ears from this campaign!"

"English ears?" said my friend. "A sergeant interposed politely: 'Pay no attention to that young fool, monsieur. He's an ignoramus.'"

"And then the sergeant turned to the ear hunter:

"Shut up, you fool! English ears? Why, don't you know the English are your allies? It's the Germans you are going to fight."

"Oh, yes, of course," said the young chasseur. "The Germans, of course. He thumped the table ferociously with his spoon and added, 'By gracious, then, I'll bet I'll bring back a pair of German ears.'" win said in a rose garden in Los Angeles:

"Neutrality aside, the Austrian don't seem to have beaten anything except retreat."

"Neutrality aside again, I heard a good thing yesterday. Two pushcart men collided in a crowded street, and one of them, as he gathered up the sugar and eggs and things that he had spilled, growled at the other: 'Do you think you're fit to run a pushcart? Why, you ain't fit to command an Austrian army corps!'"

April 14, 1905.—Miss Ada Ostrander died at her home in Gardiner. Fire in Heinle's grocery store on Main street. Loss slight. Building owned by Mrs. C. Cummings damaged $300.

Rapping the Jury.
In ancient British courts of quarter sessions when the jury were enjoined to lay their heads together they were expected to dive beneath the level of the box. The usher stood near them armed with a willow wand, and this was smartly applied to the head of any jurymen appearing above the partition before the twelve minds had come to an agreement.

Somewhat Caustic.
"This is the greatest town in the world," said the proud citizen. "It's so healthy here that people never die. They simply dry up and blow away."

"Umph!" replied the satiric stranger. "Some people about here evidently blow away at such a great rate that they don't know what it means to dry up."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Evil of Worry.
The man or woman who worries kills in himself or herself one of the greatest sources of happiness—that is, the power of observation. He is like the person who, looking out of a window upon a glorious and inspiring view, sees only a speck on the pane of glass. He is so busy inspecting the mark he fails to see the beauty beyond. Are you going to shut out all the possible beauty of the future by fretting over the anxieties of the present? Don't allow yourself to become a victim to such a warped view. Look out and over the disagreeable specks which may blot your present outlook into a beyond diffused with hopes, trust and cheer.—New York Telegram.

TEX RICKARD

TEX RICKARD NOW OWNS HALF MILLION CATTLE IN ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

Buenos Ayres, April 13.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight in Reno, Nevada, July 4, 1910, is now owner of half a million head of cattle grazing on Argentine ranges. Possibilities are open to him which never would have been except for the war and it is believed he will be one of the richest men in South America within a short time. Already he has made enormous sales to Great Britain and France for army beef and the biggest orders are still to come. Rickard is said to have gone broke on the big fight in 1910 for soon after he sold his automobile and went to South America to promote a syndicate for the big stock proposition of which he now is head.

Patented. Other patents pending.

The Dixie NoTUFT Ten Compartment Mattress is far and away ahead of the tufted kind you are now using. It is clean and easy to keep clean. Strictly sanitary.

Handsome, even-edged, well-draped beds are insured when you use a Dixie NoTUFT Compartment Mattress. It is positively guaranteed not to "spread" or "widen."

Its patented compartment construction enables us to distribute the filling in a scientific manner, putting heavier layers in compartments where wear is greatest.

All the "re-making" this mattress requires is a sun bath and a slight beating with a bed slat. No tufts to break or weaken. It is the most durable mattress made. Many other advantages make it well worth investigating.

Sanitary Inspector's Report.

I have the honor to herewith submit to you my report for the period of March 9 to April 13, 1915, inclusive:

Quarantines Placed.

Scarlet fever, 9.
Typhoid fever, 1.
Punishments, 20.
Complaints investigated, 14.Inspections have been made as usual, the scores speaking for themselves. Bakeries are maintaining a high standard of cleanliness but are not fully observing the code with regard to wrapping of food products.
Farms have been inspected to the number of twenty-two.Complaints have been particularly numerous this month. It is hoped that cleaning up day having passed all yards will now be so clean as not to give grounds for complaint. The fourteen complaints represent those having some basis. They included coops, privies, sewers and drains.
With the help of plumbing inspector in some cases most of these were adjusted, except the following, which are laid before the board:Case of a chicken coop in yard, the coop interfering with neighbors kitchen. Coop cannot be moved 25 feet from dwelling but can be moved to abate present nuisance, shall owner be ordered to remove coop entirely.The stopping of a stream by city dump on Abell street has been referred to street department, who have courteously promised report.It was reported that garbage was found in the dump on Fair street.
The persons concerned could not be identified but this opportunity is taken of calling attention to Reg. 7 of the Kingston Sanitary Code, which forbids throwing refuse or garbage in any vacant lot, etc.A rough map is offered as an illustration of a swampy condition existing in the section bounded by Rock street and Third avenue and Rondout and Ulster streets. Serious complaint has been lodged concerning the unhealthfulness of this swamp, particularly in warm weather.The alms house requests permit for the keeping of hogs. The premises have been inspected, are more than 200 feet from any dwelling and are by far the finest and most sanitary quarters provided for hogs anywhere in this section.Respectfully submitted,
HAROLD CLARKE,
Sanitary Inspector.

Supplementary Report.

Thirty-five barber shops have been supplied with the cards, the addresses in the directory were found to be obsolete. Any barber not having received a copy of the regulations is requested to notify the Board of Health at the City Hall.A conviction was obtained under Regulation 31 of the Sanitary Code of the City of Kingston, prohibiting the possession of a carcass of veal under 60 pounds.With regard to swamp noted on first page of City Engineer has kindly offered to secure levels of this property.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, April 14.—The reception given Rev. and Mrs. Eugene
A. Bookhout and son Carylz Tuesday evening was attended by over one hundred people. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. C. H.
Polhemus. The pastor and his family were introduced by Benjamin Wells. After the introduction and all had extended the hand of welcome, an entertainment was held consisting of remarks by Mr. Wells, Mr. Van Aken, Rev. C. H. Polhemus,
a duet by Mr. and Mrs. George W.
Shultz and remarks by the president of the Ladies' Aid Society after which the pastor, Rev. Eugene A.
Bookhout spoke very impressively of the occasion that brought so many people together at the close of his remarks the congregation arose and sang unitedly, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," the old familiar hymn with a meaning to deep for utterance which fitted the occasion to a leason. The ladies then served refreshments which all enjoyed and then a social hour followed reminding one of the old time festivities. The decorations were potted plants and ferns.Wallace Mabie of Salem street has CATSKILL'S NEW HOSPITAL.

Two Experienced Nurses From Kingston Will be in Charge.Catskill is to have a new hospital, which will be opened about May 3 by Miss Anna M. Woerner, R. N., and Miss Theresa Corrigan, R. N., of this city. The establishment of an institution of this kind will fill a long felt necessity in that section, as there is not a hospital at present between Kingston and Albany. The new institution will be completely equipped with all the modern accessories which are designed for the care and comfort of its patients and as it is ideally located for the purposes to which it will be devoted there is every assurance that it will soon take rank with the foremost hospitals in the Hudson. The people of Catskill and vicinity are fortunate indeed in securing the services of the Misses Woerner and Corrigan, who have long been recognized by the medicos hereabouts as among the most skillful and proficient in their profession. Both have had wide experience and it can safely be predicted that their ministrations will be gratefully appreciated in their new field of labor.

Lowest Final-Cost-Per-Mile

Actual tire expense depends on one thing, and just one thing—viz: the final-cost-per-mile.

"Nobby Tread" Tires deliver more miles for less money than any other tires in the world.

"Nobby Tread" Tires

are adjusted upon the basis of 5,000 Miles

THE GERMAN CONVERTED CRUISER KRONPRINZ WILHELM AT NEWPORT NEWS.

Newport News, April 14.—The converted German cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm is here, ostensibly for repairs and supplies but in reality to intern according to the view of American naval officials. The Kronprinz, formerly a crack North German liner, had been at sea since August 3, sinking 14 merchantmen in that time, the ships and cargoes being valued at $7,000,000. She had but 20 tons of coal in her bunkers when she dropped anchor in Hampton Roads, after successfully running the gauntlet of British cruisers which have been hovering about in wait for the Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

Great Minds Had Same Thought.

"He giveth his beloved sleep," is an ancient saying which is merely another expression of the thought that he who lives a pure and upright life will sleep as a lovely and healthful babe sleeps. The mentally feverish Lord Byron, sleepless and distraught, wrote: "God bless the man who first invented sleep." So said Sancho Panza and so say I. Thus giving a new immortality to the immortal creation of Cervantes, Spain's greatest writer.

RACE FOR A WIFE.

Getting Married Is a Strange Game In Frigid Kamchatka.

AN ORDEAL FOR THE GROOM.

After Working Hard For a Few Years For the Girl's Father He Finally Wins Her in a Public Chase, in Which He Gets His Skin Well Tanned.

It gets too hot for the Siberian only once in a lifetime. The native Koryak of Kamchatka, far up in the peninsula that is washed by the Bering sea, can sleep comfortably in a room four feet high with six by eight feet of floor space and have a fire smoking near all night while the doors are tightly closed, and then does not object if three others share his apartment with him. Tomorrow he will have chance enough to breathe more cold, fresh air than he cares for. His picture of the happy hereafter is a snug, cozy place where every cell of his body can perpetually enjoy warmth and where neither ears, fingers nor toes shall be frozen.

Once in his life, however, things get a little hotter than he can honestly enjoy, and that once he cannot escape if he is to be a man of importance in the community, for it is his marriage ceremony. As soon as the youth falls in love in dead earnest he calls on the maiden's father to find out what dowry she can bring in case of eventual marriage. Since reindeer is the Koryak's medium of exchange, the dowry usually consists of reindeer. If the father consents to the engagement and the dowry pleases the young man he interviews the girl, and if she reciprocates his affection he enters her father's service. Chopping wood, tending the herds, cultivating the garden and all other kinds of farm work fall to his share. The period of service lasts from two to three years.

The marriage ceremony begins about 6 in the evening. There is a building in the village into which the villagers crowd at twilight. A large hall runs through the center of the building on either side of which are from ten to fifteen little rooms called pologs. Each polog is separated from the next by heavy reindeer curtains, and the entrance from each polog into the hall is closed by similar curtains. Nowhere in all that building except in the hall could a good sized man stand upright.

After considerable eating and some drinking a brass drum begins to beat. At the same time a solemn faced Koryak passes from one polog to another, dropping willow sprouts and alder branches in each enclosure. Presently the beater of the drum begins to sing, to accompany his slow performance on the drum. Gradually he accelerates his beats and his song. Faster and faster he sings, until within thirty minutes he has worked himself into a state of frenzy—a consummation that is not without its effect upon the villagers. The stoical calm with which they entered, suggestive of an impending funeral, gives place to smiles, to tossings of the head, until by and by the whole crowd is as excited as its leader.

At this point, the front curtain of each polog goes up, and two or three women appear inside. In their hands are willow sprouts and alder branches. In a moment the father of the bridegroom enters the building, leading the happy couple by the hand. The noise, the shouting and the whirling now become indescribable. At a signal from the groom's father the bride dashes into the first polog to the right. The women that are within lift the curtain for her, and she passes quickly from one compartment to the next.

Not so with the groom. He dashes after her, but no sooner has he entered the first polog than the women begin to beat him with the willow sprouts and alder branches. He seizes the curtain to enter the next polog, but one or two women hold it down, and if he finally succeeds there is a hot application of branches on that part of his anatomy that remains longest within the polog.

Meanwhile the women in the next polog are ready to receive him with equal warmth. They ply the switches energetically and do not hesitate to thrust out a foot also in order that the "happy groom" may stumble and afford a more enduring target for their blows.

There is no escape from this experience until the groom has entered and passed through every one of those twenty or thirty pologs. The front curtains are raised, so that the public has a clear chance to enjoy the spectacle.

Of course he never catches the bride. She has reached the last polog before he is halfway through. If she passes out of the last polog he must work another year at her father's house and pass through the same ordeal once more. But she usually awaits him in the last polog, and when they meet there the wedding ceremony is finished—and they are man and wife.—Youth's Companion.

GREATEST PLAYS EVER MADE

Oklahoma Fan Describes Sensational Play Made by Catcher Frank Coe of Sapulpa Team.

A fan down in Oklahoma, who has been reading about the "greatest plays" ever made by major leaguers and others, sends in this one that he thinks should have a place. The play was made by Frank Coe, then catching for Sapulpa, now managing Muskogee. He writes:

"It was in a game with El Reno and the score was a tie, 3-3. In the first half of the eighth, El Reno filled the bases, with only one man down. Things looked bad for Sapulpa, but Coe kept right on talking to his pitcher, insisting that they'd pull out of the hole.

"One of El Reno's weakest hitters came to bat and Coe went out to Scotty who was pitching and had a talk with him. Then he walked back to his place, gave the signal and waited for the ball.

"But just as 'Scotty' let go the pill, Coe hurried off his mark, dashed down the third base line and the ball that the El Reno batter had bunted came right to him.

"Coe picked it up, turned around and tagged the runner who was sprinting home and then heaved it to first base for a double play. It retired the side and saved the game for Sapulpa.

"Don't you know that it took the rooters about five minutes to figure out that, feeling sure the batter would bunt, Coe had signaled for a straight ball, waist high, and had risked all on the play. But I've often wondered what would have happened if the batter hadn't struck at the ball."

FASTEST MEN IN BASEBALL

Fritz Maisel of Yankees Given Credit for More Speed Than Ty Cobb, Hans Lobert or Milan.

From first to second or from second to third, Maisel is the fastest man in baseball; a full step faster than Cobb or Lobert or Milan. "If I ever hit .300," says Fritz, "and don't steal 120 bases I'll eat my leg."

"Which is the hardest to steal, second or third?" he was asked. "Third,"

Fritz Maisel of Yankees.

was his reply. "It's just a matter of walking down and stopping at second base."

Asked what percentage of steals he was able to put over—that is, the number of times he was able to arrive safely out of a certain number of starts—Maisel said: "The only time I kept track was through two weeks, when I started sixteen times and stole fourteen bases, which is fair enough."

BRAVES HAVE HEAVY BURDEN

Some Startling Facts About Expensive Boston Park Proposition—Will Cost $350,000.

President James E. Gaffney of the Boston National club, announced that the Braves' new stadium would be ready in August. The grandstand will be a single-decker of concrete and steel and the total seating capacity will accommodate 45,000 spectators. The plant will be located at Cottage Farms, within six minutes' ride from the South station over the Boston and Albany railroad.

The trolley cars will enter the stadium on a spur track. The playing field will be about twenty feet lower than the street level and will be larger than any other ball grounds in the major leagues. To finish the stadium Gaffney says he will spend at least $250,000. He will do the work himself.

Until the plant is ready for championship games the Braves will use Fenway park, the home of the Red Sox.

Whitted May Succeed Paskert. What's this we hear? George Whitted may succeed Paskert in center field for the Phillies. How that Whitted boy is growing! He wasn't good enough to be a substitute with the Cardinals, then George Stallings got him and put a new spirit in him, and now he's counted better than one of the best outfielders in the National league.

Praise for an Umpire. It is being printed as a good story and a testimonial to his ability that Umpire Van Buskirk, signed by the Three-league for this season, was the only man able to go through the whole season in the North Carolina league last year.

THE ROAD MAKER.

The civilized man makes roads; the savage does not. That is the safest test of civilization.

Among us, in all communities, are individuals who are not really civilized. They do not take any interest in roads.

A man's scale in civilization is very correctly tested by his attitude toward the stone which has rolled into the road or the tree which has blown down across it. The man who drives around the obstacle day after day is one sort of man; the one who stops his team and rolls or drags it away is another. And a person passing along a road which he does not expect to retrace who removes the obstruction for the sake of the stranger who comes after him responds to a very high test of civilization. He feels socially.

When the snow piles up in the road the man who goes ahead and breaks the path for others bears the burden which he who has made progress always must bear. There is snow in every road—to co-operation, to better schools, to better business methods. There must be road breakers for every path. The road maker is the great civilizer.—Farm and Fireside.

ADVOCATES BRICK ROADS.

Initial Cost Comparatively Heavy, but Maintenance Much Less.

W. O. Griffith, editor of the Monthly Bulletin of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, has studied the results of road building of various kinds in different states and concludes that brick roads are far superior for mixed heavy traffic, including horses and motor-trucks, as well as pleasure cars.

Cut stone, or Belgian blocks, and brick are both too noisy for use in cities, where wood blocks are the most efficient. For building roads in the country, cut stone is too expensive, and where there is heavy traffic the cost of maintenance of macadam roads is also too expensive. Mr. Griffith advocates the use of brick on all well traveled roads as real economy. The initial cost of laying down good macadam road varies from $8,000 to $12,000 per mile, and brick road varies from $12,000 to $16,000 per mile. The maintenance cost of macadam road, however, is approximately $1,000 per mile per year, while for brick it is estimated at $75 per mile per year—in fact, New Jersey has spent $1,500 per mile per year for her macadam roads.

"The vital principle in road construction," Mr. Griffith says, "is that of the cost of maintenance. New York has used patent bituminous pavements since 1908, and the experience of western New York in the vicinity of Rochester and Buffalo is that for the market roads in the towns, where horse traffic is heavy, brick is the only possible road to use, although its first cost is high. They find that for high speed automobile roads, bituminous surfaces of a good grade, such as coated stone, have been found satisfactory. However, on such roads where horse traffic becomes heavy, or at curves, maintenance cost immediately increases rapidly, while the same does not appear to be the case with brick roads under similar conditions."

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Remarkable Progress Made in United States During Recent Years.

That remarkable progress has been made in the building of good roads throughout the United States during the past few years is proved by data recently published in the official Good Roads Year Book for 1915. It has been found that more than 34,000 miles of surfaced roads have been constructed during 1913 and 1914 and that during the ten year period from 1904 to 1914 more than 96,000 miles have been completed. That this progress has been really amazing may be understood from the fact that in 1904 there were only 153,000 miles of surfaced roads of all types in the United States. That the movement is attaining momentum as it goes is proved by the fact that while the average mileage constructed per annum during the past ten years is 9,600 miles, the total completed for 1914 exceeded 18,000 miles. The report shows that something like 30,000 miles of highway have been completed with the aid of state funds, of which over $200,000,000 have been expended. The state aid movement began in 1892 and has therefore continued for twenty-two years. Only recently has it got well under way, as the results accomplished for 1913 and 1914 comprise a total of 10,000 miles of state aid highways completed, or in two years' time one-third of the entire mileage constructed with the aid of state funds has been completed.

Only six states now out of a total of forty-eight are without state highway departments, and thirty states have granted actual money aid to the building of roads.

Highway Commission and Earth Road.

In some of the states, particularly those in the Mississippi valley, the state highway commissions are rendering valuable aid in the improvement of earth roads. These commissions prepare addresses and issue bulletins on road subjects, and some of them have officials who give at least a part of their time to the earth roads. Of these commissions perhaps that of Iowa is doing more for earth roads than that of any other state.

Hazel Twigs.

Hazel twigs long have been used as instruments with which to discover water under ground. The twig has at various times been credited with many marvelous powers. Not only could it discover water, but concealed lodes of metal, especially silver, were betrayed by the hazel, which according to tradition, was guided by the pixies who guarded the treasures of the earth. In France the divining rod of hazel was used in the pursuit of criminals, while in many of the methods of investigating the future the burning of hazel nuts played a part.

A Magnetic Island.

The island of Bornholm, in the Baltic sea, may be regarded as a huge magnet. Although the power of attraction is not so great as to draw nails and bolts out of approaching ships, the magnetism works a good deal of damage in that it deflects the needle of the compass so that it cannot be depended upon. The effect is perceptible at a distance of nine and a half miles.

Mrs. Bacon—This paper says distinct traces of light have been detected in the ocean at depths of more than 3,000 feet by an English oceanographical expedition. Mr. Bacon—Some of those careless mermen left the gas burning I reckon.—Youkers Statesman.

Ever Happen to You?

Bill—It is said there are 925 separate operations in the manufacture of a watch that sells for a dollar. Jill—Well, there are more than that when one has stopped and a fellow is trying to make it go.—Youkers Statesman.

Answering His Prayer.

"Couldn't you help a poor man to get on his feet?" pleaded the recumbent beggar, plaintively.
"Certainly," replied the callous citizen. "Here comes a policeman. If you don't get on your feet and move away from here I'll have you arrested."
And the prescription worked perfectly.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Pleasure.

Pleasure is the hard work that we do because we are not compelled to do it.—Albany Journal.

SINKING OF FALABA WITH 112 MEN AND WOMEN.

The photograph shows vividly the fearful scenes that attended the sinking of the British merchantman Falaba by the German submarine U 28 on March 28 last. Survivors agree that the vessel was torpedoed before the ship's company had a chance to get away in the small boats as ordered. The photograph shows a capsized life boat with passengers struggling in the icy water. Many of them had on life belts but perished of exposure in a short time. The picture was taken from the deck of the Falaba just before she sunk. The man who took the photo clung to a piece of wreckage for an hour and was rescued.

Through a Big Telescope.

The first look through a great telescope is disappointing, but the novice soon sees that the flat appearance which the heavens present to the naked eye is replaced by a curious concavity. The moon and stars seem to be hung in space rather than spread out on a flat surface. For a moment one feels at the telescope like a child watching the swift moving balls kept in the air by a juggler and expecting to see one of those great, bright bodies fall.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

Believe in yourself, believe in humanity, believe in the success of your undertakings. Fear nothing and no one. Love your work. Work, hope, trust. Keep in touch with today. Teach yourself to be practical and up to date and sensible. You cannot fail.

An Indirect Hit.

A patient who was suffering from a scalp wound was recently admitted to a hospital. "How did this happen?" asked the resident surgeon.

"The wife hit me on the head with a stone," was the answer.

"It's the first time I ever heard of a woman hitting anything she aimed at," the doctor observed jokingly.

"Oh, she didn't aim it at me. She was throwing the stone at our neighbor's fowls, and I was standing behind her!"—London Graphic.

Two Travelers' Tales.

"We have islands a mile in circumference composed entirely of sulphur," boasted the man from New Zealand.

"You ought to see our big trees," came back the American. "You could pick up one of those islands on the tip of one of our trees and let it serve as the head of a match."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Signal Flags.

Signaling by flags, as the term is now universally understood, was invented in the year 1854 by Surgeon Myer of the United States army. Before Surgeon Myer's invention the only flag signaling was by color; but, realizing the inadequacy of such a mode of conveying information, Dr. Myer studied out the system of "wigwagging," or talking, by making motions with the flag, a sort of deaf and dumb telegraphy, which has since been adopted by pretty nearly all the nations of the world.

SUFFERING.

Suffering is doubtless as divinely appointed as joy, while it is much more influential as a discipline of character. It chastens and sweetens the nature, teaches patience and resignation and promotes the deepest as well as the most exalted thought.—Samuel Smiles.

OVER-PRODUCTION BRINGS TO YOU

MONUMENTS AT REDUCED PRICES

Every dollar you send out of town, patronizing mail order concerns or agents representing firms outside of Kingston, flies away with a VALUE that rightfully belongs to YOUR community. The same rule applies to the purchase of gravesites or monuments, and here's an opportunity to invest in those articles at unusual savings, at the same time spending your money with a well-known home industry.

As is generally known throughout the city, Matthew M. Byrne, senior member of the firm of Byrne Brothers, died recently. In his lifetime the firm's monument works at the corner of Broadway and Henry street, was run on regular time, with a full complement of expert stone men, and owing to the continued dull times, the products of the works accumulated faster than has been the demand. Of course this condition could not have been foreseen, but there's a remedy. In order to quickly and satisfactorily settle the affairs of the late Matthew M. Byrne's estate and at the same time reduce our over-production of monuments, etc., we have

DEEPLY CUT PRICES ON ALL STONES NOW ON HAND

Besides the reasons given for the radical price-reductions referred to, we might add the fact that our yard premises are congested with surplus stones, and that we must have room to continue our work.

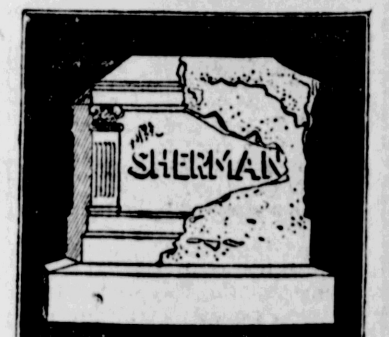

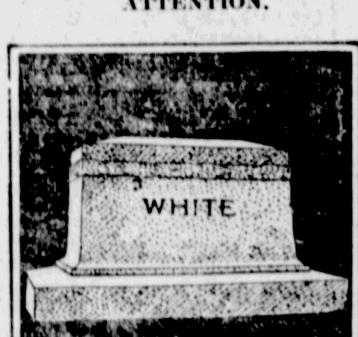

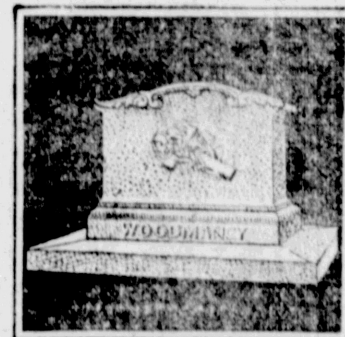

Here, then, is an opportunity to secure a fine monument at a price never before paralleled in Kingston. The chance will be yours for a short time only and you will be wise to embrace it at once.

Coming as it does at a time when owners are beautifying burial plots and assisting Nature to look her best for Memorial Day, this price-lowering event on artistically designed monuments will be doubly welcome to those who have had in mind the purchase of a gravestone this spring. Certainly more beautiful monuments cannot be found anywhere along the Hudson River or in the State of New York. Every stone is perfect, and you may purchase here with full reliance on the integrity and discernment of this firm.

Plot owners and others who may wish to secure a stone of some description to mark the resting place of a departed relative or friend, are earnestly requested to call, inspect the monuments on hand and learn of price-concessions that will be decidedly to their advantage.

Charity Ball Supper Committee.

At a recent meeting of the supper committee of the coming Charity Ball, held at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Jacob A. Lay, plans were perfected whereby all those who attend will be assured of an abundance of good things to eat, at a most reasonable price. Sandwiches of lettuce, cheese, pimento, and ham, coffee, ice cream and home made cake will be among the dainty things served and as each dinner expended will help in the continuance of the great good being done by the Benedictine Sanitarium, it is hoped that the supper booth will be well patronized.

Van Keuren-Van Kleeck.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Van Kleeck of Rifton was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday.

day, April 7, at 2 p. m., when their daughter, Ruby, was united in marriage to Howard Van Keuren of Bloomington. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. S. Coutant of Tillson, pastor of the Friends' Church. They were attended by Arthur Ingraham of Ohioville, and Miss Mabel Van Kleeck, sister of the bride. A few relatives and friends were present. After luncheon was served Mr. and Mrs. Van Keuren left for Philadelphia where they will spend their honeymoon and on returning they will reside in Jersey City.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox have gone on a honeymoon trip through the northern part of the state. On their return they will reside at 16 Hunter street, where a beautiful furnished home awaits them. Mr. and Mrs. Fox have a host of friends who wish them a bright and happy married life.

Monday Club.

The Monday Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Philip Elting on Malden Lane this week. Mrs. Ogden Winne had the paper for the day on "Zanzibar and the Forgotten Isles." A fine description of Zanzibar, its geography, its people, its customs, and its commercial life was given. Among the "Forgotten Isles" special prominence was given to St. Pierre, Ascension, St. Helena and Crete, and from beginning to end the paper was full of entertaining and amusing sketches that made more lasting the impression of the excellent portrayal of the subject under consideration. Throughout the paper held the closest attention of all present. Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Michael.

Fine Music Study Club.

It was the privilege of a Freeman reporter to visit a meeting of the Music Study Club at Highland, held Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. George Pratt in that village. This club is composed of some twenty-five members, and during the winter they have covered a group of musical subjects, not only very interesting and instructive but also musically instructive in character. Following the business session yesterday, a fine program of French music was given, giving illustrations to the music of Gounod, Massenet, Debussy, Saint Saens and others, both the vocal and instrumental numbers and also the papers being of a very high degree of excellence. The club is wisely ambitious and enthusiastic, and it is expected that this organization will inaugurate the movement to begin chorus work in Highland for the coming spring musical festival.

Child Life in Africa.

Child life in Africa has few pleasures and many sorrows and is in a state of constant reversal and change. From the time of a boy's birth until he has gone through the "devil bush" he is little thought of, but as soon as he has passed through its terrible ordeals and practices he is regarded as a man and an asset in the native community. With a girl it is different. It is very hard to procure girls for the mission stations because they are considered specially valuable as workers and possible money bringers until the period arrives for them to enter and pass through the "gree-gree" bush ordeal. Then they are regarded as women and eligible for marriage, and their industrial value decreases. Still, if they rear large families, their market value keeps up in a measure, for in certain sections of Africa tribal custom permits a man to sell, loan or rent out his wives or keep them in household slavery or give them their freedom. Freedom is conferred by presenting the wife with the long tooth of a leopard, which indicates that she is no longer a slave, but a free woman, not a divorced wife.—Christian Herald.

A Bernard Shaw Criticism.

Before fame came to him Bernard Shaw wrote dramatic criticisms for the London Saturday Review. The following sample is characteristic of the man: "I am in a somewhat foolish position concerning a play at the Opera Comique, whither I was bidden this day week. For some reason I was not supplied with a program, so that I never learned the name of the play. At the end of the second act the play had advanced about as far as an ordinary dramatist would have brought it five minutes after the first rising of the curtain or, say, as far as Ibsen would have brought it ten years before that event. Taking advantage of the second interval to stroll out into the Strand for a little exercise, I unfortunately forgot all about my business and actually reached home before it occurred to me that I had not seen the end of the play. Under these circumstances it would ill become me to dogmatize on the merits of the work or its performance. I can only offer the management my apologies."

Eastern Vermont's Marbles.

Though the western part of Vermont includes the most extensive marble industry in this country, the eastern part is a virgin field, where, in the lack of a general study of the stratigraphy, the structure, the paleontology and the areal geology, it is at present not only impossible to determine the area and position of many of the beds, but also even the thickness of some of the marble formations, which are but partly exposed. The marbles of eastern Vermont, many of which are dolomitic, vary widely in kind and character, and the outcrops, though few in number, are scattered from the Massachusetts line to the Canadian boundary. Many of the marbles are suited only for indoor ornamental use. The greater part of the ledges are to be classed as mineral reserves, which will be drawn on in the future.

GENERAL GORGAS.
GEN. GORGAS CALLED TO "CLEAN UP" SERBIA.

Washington, April 14.—Major General William C. Gorgas, surgeon general of the United States army, has been invited by the Rockefeller Foundation to become a permanent member of its staff and to take charge of the work of putting down the typhus epidemic in Serbia. He has taken the offer under consideration.

AMERICANS' CLUB IN MEXICO CITY WRECKED BY ZAPATISTA AGITATORS.

The photograph shows the interior of the Country Club, in Mexico City, an organization which has long been the rendezvous of wealthy Americans. The view shows how the building was wrecked by Zapatista agitators and their followers in the recent riots.

A deserted American flag is shown among the wreckage and in the foreground the telephone with receiver hanging may be seen.

JAPANESE UMBRELLA TRICK.

It Was a Street Incident That Led Up to the Clever Feat.

Fents with an umbrella—of the Japanese kind—are very common. The juggler throws up a ball, catches it on the top of an open umbrella and, by twisting the handle rapidly, causes the ball to run round the edge of the umbrella. A similar feat is performed with certain rings and with coins. The smaller and lighter the coin the more difficult the feat.

All these feats were originated by a street performer in Japan. One day while passing under the walls of a castle a small audience collected on the top of the wall and playfully dropped some tangerines on to the comedian of the company of struggling jugglers. (No such company is complete without a comedian.) The next day the comedian was treated in the same manner, and so he put up a paper umbrella to shield himself. The shower of tangerines broke through the umbrella.

Then the leading juggler of the company saw his opportunity. He took the umbrella, twisted it quickly and by making it revolve caused the tangerines to fly off. While he was doing this he was helped by a lucky accident. One of the tangerines rolled round the umbrella once before dropping on the ground. The juggler picked up the tangerine and caught it once more on his revolving umbrella, and thus the feat was invented.

The hardest feat of all with the umbrella is done with a Japanese coin which is lighter than an American cent.—London Strand Magazine.

"KEEP STILL" IS WHAT WOMAN SENATOR IN COLORADO LEARNED.

Denver, April 14.—"Hold thy tongue" is the secret of political success, says Mrs. Helen King Robinson, who ended two years service as state senator. "It took me nearly two years to learn to keep still," she said. "At first I liked to make speeches, but I didn't talk much in the session just closed."

HE WAS HUNGRY.

Under the Circumstances His Jumble of Words Was Excusable.

Professor Sigmund Freud, the eminent German scholar, has made a study of lingual blunders, spoken and printed, and has embodied the result in his book, "Psychopathology." As an example of blundering speech caused by subconscious cerebration he gives the following:

"A wealthy but not very generous American host invited his friends to an evening party. Everything went well until about midnight, when there was an intermission for supper. To the disappointment of many of the guests there was no real supper. Instead they were regaled with thin sandwiches and lemonade.

"As it was during the presidential campaign, the conversation turned upon the different candidates, and as the discussion grew warmer one of the guests, an ardent Progressive, remarked to the host:

"You may say what you please about Roosevelt, but there is one thing he can always be relied upon to do—he always gives you a square meal."

"He meant, of course, to say a 'square deal.' The assembled guests burst into a roar of laughter, to the great embarrassment both of the speaker and of the host."

Passing of Papyrus.

One of the modern mysteries of Egypt is the disappearance of the papyrus plant that once fringed the lower Nile and made a desirable haunt for water fowl. A botanist, recently from Cairo, declares that in all lower Egypt the only papyrus now growing in a natural state are in the Esbekieh Gardens fountain at Cairo, the botanical gardens and at the Barrage. Perhaps Isiah may have thrown the evil eye on the plant, for among his prophecies is the destruction of the "paper reeds by the brooks." If we did not have ancient illustrations to guide us it would be impossible from the present scanty remains to reconstruct the amazing folds of papyrus that indirectly helped to civilize us.—London Tatler.

A Town of Distinction.

"Where can one find a more filthy, hot, sweltering, odorous town than Hodeidah?" asks a recent traveler regarding that Arabian port. A filthier town it would indeed be difficult to discover, even in Asiatic Turkey, and the character of its inhabitants may be judged from the fact that the Akhdam Arabs, who are treated as outcasts by all the other tribes, have been allowed to establish themselves in Hodeidah. Nevertheless the port is the gateway to one of the most beautiful, fertile and populous regions of Arabia and had a flourishing trade in days prior to Turkish misrule.—Fall Mail Gazette.

SWORN VICTIMS OF EAST PRUSSIAN OUTRAGES OF THE CZAR'S TROOPS.

The German government is making a rigid official investigation of the actions of the force of Russians who invaded East Prussia on the last drive and committed atrocities and outrages, according to report. The photograph shows a group of women who allege they were forced to suffer indignities at the hands of their captors when the Czar's troops took Pilkallen.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, April 14.—A special meeting of the village board of trustees was held Monday evening to open bids and let the contract for the new Canal street pavement. The work is to be 500 feet long and the street averages 36 feet. The following bids were received: Thompson & Wooster, Walden, 30 cents per running foot for curbing; 45 cents per cubic yard for labor for new concrete pavement, the village to furnish all material; $1.10 per cubic yard for excavation, material to be carted to foot of Canal street for dumping. H. Schunemunk Construction Company of Highland Falls, 32 cents for curbing and 43 per square yard for pavement. William Henniger of Ellenville, 40 cents for curbing and 30 cents for pavement. Jacob Weber of Ellenville, 30 cents for curbing, 30 cents for pavement and 48 cents for excavation. All three bids of Jacob Weber were accepted and the attorney for the board was directed to draw the contract, bond, etc. The Hassan Paving Company put in a bid of $1.70 per square yard for paving, to furnish all material, or at $1.25, the village to furnish the cracked stone. On bids for cement, William H. Deyo quoted $1.25 a barrel for Atlas and Jacob Weber $1.05 for Lehigh cement. The last named was accepted. The secretary was directed to advertise for bids for sand. The contract goes to Weber on the understanding that the concrete will be prepared in a mixer. John M. Watson was named to represent the board on the citizens committee to make arrangements for the purchase by the village of the old school house, corner of Main and Warren streets.

ENGINE 100 YEARS OLD.

It is Coming From Catskill to be in the Parade.

The F. N. Wilson engine company of Catskill is coming to the firemen's convention in this city in June. The company will bring its old hand engine which is over one hundred years old. The company now has a modern steamer but the old mascot is still dear to the hearts of the Catskill fire laddies. "The Yankess," as it is known, will make a wonderful contrast with the modern motor apparatus of Kingston, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Cornwall and Middletown, which will be seen in the parade. The Example of this city intend parading their old hand engine at the same time.

Fire in Small Shed.

An alarm from Box 49, corner of Chambers and Union streets brought the fire department on the run Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock to the small shed in the rear of C. Larsen's paint shop on Hasbrouck avenue at Union street. Some boys are suspected of setting fire to the building but the firemen had little trouble in extinguishing the blaze with chemicals. The loss is not a heavy one.

Plans for New Bakery.

Thomas P. Rice has completed plans for the new building to be erected by Albert Salzmann, the baker, on Abel street. It will be three stories of brick, 31 by 118 feet in dimensions. The contracts for the work have not yet been awarded.

The Old Roman Ballot.

The ballot was first introduced into Rome in the second century B. C. This was the real Australian ballot. The voter received a sort of wooden slate covered with wax on which the names of all the candidates were scratched. He made holes in the wax opposite those of his choice and dropped his tablet in the box. After the downfall of the Roman republic popular government took a long sleep, and there was little use for a ballot till quite modern times.

Unwritten Law Again.
The term "Unwritten Law" means the opinion or convictions that have been arrived at by the great public and which are acted upon as though they had become actual laws.

Term Originated by Fox.
The word "Radical," as applied to a British political party, originated in a speech made by Charles J. Fox, in 1797, when he referred to the necessity for "radical reform."

DECK SCENE ON FALABA TWO MINUTES BEFORE TORPEDO STRUCK—FIRST LIFEBOAT LOWERED.

Herewith is shown a deck scene on the steamboat Falaba taken two minutes before the torpedo struck the ship. There was no panic, the passengers not doubting they would receive ample time to escape in the small boats. Most had donned life belts while awaiting their chances to enter the lifeboats. The lowering of the first lifeboat is also shown in the picture. It was crushed against the ship's side by a heavy sea as soon as it took the water. All of these pictures were snapped by a cool headed passenger who leaped into the sea and clung to a plank after the Falaba sunk. He was rescued an hour later.

Immune From Appendicitis.

The famous surgeon and traveler, Dr. Nicholas Senn, while visiting the hospitals and towns on the African East coast, was informed by the physicians he met that they had never come across a case of appendicitis among the black natives who live mainly on fruit and vegetables. Doctor Paller also found the same experience among the Brahmins of India, who are strict vegetarians.

SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

Tennis is the only sport that has come to the fore without thousands of columns of newspaper publicity. And in the past five years tennis has increased in popularity to such an extent that there are millions of devotees where there were only thousands before.

Other games like baseball, football, pugilism and golf have interested the public and been taken up by it because publicity has influenced them. But with tennis it has been different. There isn't a sporting page in the country that has averaged one-tenth as much tennis news as it has baseball, pugilism, golf or football.

Tennis has won its several million enthusiasts because of the merits of the game alone. It is not a wrackling game but a game for red blooded men and women—a real game in every sense of its athletic usage.

A successful player must be fast of foot, and faster in brain. He must have a steady eye and a steady arm. Tennis doesn't require brute strength, but it does require well balanced muscles, nerve, coolness and skill. A good tennis player must hit hard and hit softly as the occasion demands. And there is not much chance for him to figure out how he is going to hit. His decision and the action must follow each other within a fraction of a second or he loses a point in the game.

Many sports have been pointed highly as health builders but none is better than tennis. The net game is an ideal one for those who have grown a bit bulky and want to lose some of the bulk. If constant playing of tennis doesn't send a portly person back to or near normal weight nothing can.

Tennis once was a game only for the wealthy. Now it is everyone's game. In other years there were no public tennis courts. Those who liked the game of tennis had to belong to some club that had courts. That meant a sizeable initiation fee and dues each month that were too big for the ordinary person to pay. But things are different now.

In every big city in the country the municipal authorities have built tennis courts in the parks. And they will build more this summer and more next because the army of tennis players is increasing amazing and the city cannot accommodate half of those who want to play. Owners of vacant lots in the residential sections of many of the cities have shown enterprise by laying courts on these pieces of land and charging a moderate rental for the courts. Their courts are always in demand.

Tennis is not a costly game. A racket costs from $2 to $5 and will last for years. The tennis balls are very cheap and a pair of them will last for many games. The rest of the equipment includes a pair of sneakers and a flannel suit, although the suit is no way a necessity.

And for this small outlay one gets many hours of pleasure and much health giving exercise. No wonder the popularity of the game is growing by leaps and bounds.

SPRING SESSION OF CLASSIS OF ULSTER

The spring meeting of the Classis of Ulster of the Reformed Dutch Church was held in the Reformed Church of the Comforter in this city on Tuesday and was largely attended by representatives of the various churches within the classis.

The Rev. George W. Gulick, pastor of the Reformed Church at Shokan, was elected president of the classis, and the Rev. William Sinclair, pastor of the Gould Memorial Church at Roxbury, was elected stated clerk. The Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, pastor of the First Dutch Church of Kingston; the Rev. George W. Gulick of Shokan, and Elders Ogden Dunnagan and Henry S. Jennings were elected delegates to the general synod.

The matter of vacancies in pastorate was discussed and a resolution was adopted to petition the particular synod to exercise its power to appoint pastors for such vacant churches, with the approval of the synodical missionary, the Rev. J. H. Brandow.

Standing committees for the classis were appointed as follows:
Committee on nominations—The Rev. J. M. Mayskens, the Rev. W. F. Stowe, Elder Hiram Bovee.Committee on doctrine—The Rev. William Sinclair, the Rev. C. H. Polhemus, Elder B. O. Osterhout.
Committee on consistorial minutes—The Rev. W. F. Stowe, the Rev. William Sinclair, Elder William S. Winne.

Committee on overtures and judicial business—The Rev. C. H. Polhemus, the Rev. William Sinclair, Ogden Dunnagan.

Committee on accounts—Elders Rufus D. Kelder and Lyman Carle.
Committee on vacant churches—The Rev. J. V. Wemple, the Rev. W. F. Stowe, Elder A. B. Bogart.

The classical sermon was preached by the Rev. C. H. Polhemus of Ulster Park, who took as his text: "I am He that liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive forevermore. Amen, and have the keys of hell and death." The death and resurrection of Christ, he said, should be considered as an episode between His eternal past and His eternal future. Not only had He lived Himself, but He was the source of life to others. Far back in sacred history God told Moses in practically the same language what He was. When the angel of the Lord appeared unto Moses in a bush that burned with fire and yet was not consumed, Moses would have gone up to examine the bush but the angel warned him to keep at a distance because the place was holy ground. Then when God gave Moses his commission and told him to deliver the children of Israel, and Moses asked what he should say to them, God answered, "I am that I am." By this sentence, "I am," God would have Moses to understand that to Him there was no past or present or future, as man considers such things, but that to God everything was an eternal "now." All that has happened, all that is happening now and all that will happen lies before God open, just as the present lies open before mortals, and in all probability the angel of the Covenant who spoke to Moses was the same who afterwards became Jesus of Nazareth, who introduced himself centuries later on the Isle of Patmos as "He that liveth."

Classis decided to hold its fall meeting in the Reformed Church at Catskill.

At noon the delegates were entertained at dinner in the chapel of the church by the ladies of the congregation, who maintained their reputation for warm-hearted hospitality.

The delegates present at Tuesday's meeting were:
Church of the Comforter—The Rev. W. F. Stowe and Elder Rufus D. Kelder.
First Dutch Church—The Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, Elder Nelson Longyear.Saugerties Reformed Church—The Rev. J. V. Wemple.
Port Ewen Reformed Church—The Rev. J. M. Mayskens, Elder Virgil Britt.

Woodstock Reformed Church—The Rev. Henry W. Brink, Elder Hiram Bovee.

Roxbury Reformed Church—The Rev. William Sinclair, Elder Otis P. More.

Blue Mountain Reformed Church—Elder Herbert N. DuBois.

Esopus Reformed Church—The Rev. C. Van Oostenbrugge, Elder Sydney M. Terpening.

Flatbush Reformed Church—Elder B. O. Osterhout.

High Woods Reformed Church—Elder Lyman Carle.

Plattekill Reformed Church—Elder A. B. Bogart.

Shakoken Reformed Church—Elder William S. Winne.

The Rev. C. H. Polhemus of Ulster Park and the Rev. S. T. Cole of this city, who are members of the classis, also were present.
